Unlocking the value of Office 365

Purpose-built to unlock the value of the Microsoft Office 365 productivity suite, Nulia is based on three core pillars:

 Measure and evaluate. Nulia develops skills by doing, not passively learning, then keeping people using digital technologies in a way that works for them. Capture each user's unique needs and continuously measure progress against goals.

 Personalise and guide. Target engagement in each user's natural flow of work, guiding them with data intelligence to attain and maintain new digital productivity skills by doing.

 Engage and reward. Always-on support and engagement makes skills development fun, exciting, and personally rewarding. Users earn industry-recognised badges that are based on verified usage of digital skills that can be shared across professional networks, including LinkedIn.

Nulia's unique approach

Research tells us that 50% of digital productivity tools go unused and do not create lasting change. Buying digital productivity suites is simply not enough. Without the right approach to enable users, and continuously measure their progress and guide them, the value of the productivity suite investment cannot be realised.

Nulia is a new way of getting employees to use Office 365, to help them become more productive on a continuous basis. It guides users with data-driven insights and measures success by doing; enabling them to continuously attain and maintain productivity skills.

Nulia provides a better way through digital enablement. Digital enablement goes beyond training to drive skill development and sustainable behavioural change. It helps employees realise their productivity potential in the flow of work, unlocking the value of Office 365 for users and organisations.
